

Ad Hoc NOMINATION CONSORTIUM

BRIEF OVERVIEW WITH STATISTICS

Overview

The Ad Hoc Nomination Consortium, consisting of 21 national nursing organizations, share the common goal of nominating qualified nursing professionals to federal councils, taskforces, and committees. Together the Consortium has nominated over 100 candidates and has successfully placed nurses on a wide variety of councils and committees. The members of the Consortium believe it is essential for the nursing profession to have a seat at the table for the creation, discussion, and regulation of federal health policy. The Consortium continues to work toward accomplishing this shared goal.

21 Organizations

100+ Nominations Submitted

Status & Looking Ahead

The Ad Hoc Nomination Consortium puts forward multiple qualified candidates to various committees, taskforces, and federal positions each year.

In 2023, AACN streamlined the nomination process by making a survey for interested applicants to complete for potential candidates. In 2024, AACN is working to ensure our message is disseminated to various agencies, creating templates, working with candidates one-on-one, and so much more!

42

Nominations Submitted in 2020

32

Nominations Submitted in 2022

30

Nominations Submitted in 2021

37

Nominations Submitted in 2023

Nomination Process

AACN monitors agency websites and the Federal Register for nomination opportunities.

AACN staff follows up with the candidate periodically to provide additional assistance, updates, and to ensure candidate feels supported.

AACN staff sends nomination opportunity to the Consortium and various other groups. Opportunities are included on the AACN website monthly.

AACN staff submits all application materials to the committee. Candidate is notified once application has been submitted.

AACN staff receives potential candidate for nomination and reaches out to gather requested application materials including a nomination letter.

AACN staff sends candidate's nomination letter and CV to the Consortium for additional sign ons. Letter is then updated to reflect those who support the nomination.

SUCCESSFUL NOMINATIONS:

- Catherine Ivory, PHD, RNC OB, RN-BC, FAAN: Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality (AHRQ)
- Lauren Hardin, MSN, RN-BC, CNL, FNAP: Physician Focused Payment Model Technical Advisory Committee (PTAC)
- Betty Rambur, PHD, RN, FAAN: Medicare Payment Advisory Commission (MedPAC),
- Kimberly Olszewski, DNP, CRNP, BC, COHN-S/CM, FAAOHN: National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health (NIOSH)
- Christopher Friese, PHD, RN, AOCN, FAAN: Patient-Centered Outcomes Research Institute (PCORI)

AD HOC
NOMINATION
CONSORTIUM

Purpose

IDENTIFY

Consortium members will identify nurses to appoint to various positions to help reach the shared goal of getting qualified nurses on federal committees, taskforces, groups, and councils.

PROMOTE

Consortium members will promote various nomination opportunities to colleagues and internal staff achieving the Consortium's shared goal.

SUPPORT

Consortium members will be able to support potential candidate's application for nomination.

Want to learn more? Are you an organization that wants to join the Consortium?

Contact Us Today!

Brenda Baker, PhD, RN, FAAN: Director of Policy at BBaker@aacnnursing.org

Nicole Huber, Policy Coordinator: NHuber@aacnnursing.org