BONUS members are always looking for creative solutions their peers have initiated. Share your strategies and insights with your colleagues on our very own on-line community at BONUS Network. It’s a great tool, not only for sharing great ideas, but it also serves as a database that stores those conversations.

What better place to continue those insightful conversations and sharing of ideas than the upcoming 35th annual BONUS meeting in Captiva Island, Florida, April 22nd – 24th. Built around the theme “Navigating the Future”, this agenda will delve deep into real workplace issues, spark your entrepreneurial spirit, and serve to help you excel at all levels of leadership.

From the bold new ideas that are transforming how we think about nursing education, to pragmatic advice on how to solve common workplace challenges, the BONUS annual meeting will help you make work better. The program brochure can be found on the AACN website: https://www.aacnnursing.org/Professional-Development/Conference-Info/sessionaltcd/1621

We are still in need of a few more facilitators. If you are interested in facilitating a session on budget models or generating revenue please feel free to contact me at kpwolfe@hsc.wvu.edu.

Looking forward to winter ending and enjoying the start of spring with you all in Captiva Island. See you in April!

DENVER 2021!

The BONUS Steering Committee met this past September 2019 at The Curtis Hotel to review potential sites for our 36th Annual BONUS Conference being held in Spring 2021.
How Networking Through BONUS Broadens Your Professional Development

As BONUS continues its dedication to boosting network opportunities to professionals in nurse education administration, BONUS Chair Elect, Nancy Halderman, is one of many BONUS members whose involvement in our network broadened her professional scope and landscape. BONUS has introduced Nancy to valuable professional relationships—something Nancy finds essential for positive experiences in her career.

Supporting the VPAA of the School of Nursing at Indiana-Wesleyan University and having oversight of the school budget afforded me the opportunity to become a part of BONUS Committee to support my professional development for my newer, current role as Associate Director of Community Partnerships and Budget Manager. I was surprised how quickly I began to build ongoing relationships in my profession. It’s been several years since I’ve joined BONUS and today I have made some significant and supportive colleagues. For instance, BONUS has made it possible for me to consult with other members of BONUS to receive input on procedures and newly acquired processes.

For this reason, I encourage any business officer of a nursing school take advantage of what the annual BOUNS conference has to offer. The depth of the topics presented, the professional networking available and having the opportunity to discuss subjects with like-minded professionals is invaluable to your professional development. And if you do attend, push yourself to make introductions. There are many roles BONUS members hold for their organization, and engaging with a larger group is bound to lift limits in your network.

How did you become involved with BONUS and what information would you like to give to upcoming attendees for the BONUS Conference 2020?:

Nancy Halderman enjoys hand-turning ink pens, gardening, reading, and bike-riding in her spare time.

Important Reminder!

Please register and reserve your room for our 35th annual BONUS Conference on Captiva Island, Florida. Also, encourage colleagues from your organization to join us at the conference and become apart of BONUS!
