

Carolyn Humphrey, PhD

Principal Consultant and Founder Voyagers Consulting

Carolyn Humphrey, Ph.D., is the Principal Consultant and Founder of Voyagers Consulting. With more than 25 years of demonstrated experience, she has assisted a broad range of clients in the higher education and healthcare arenas. Carolyn is a senior faculty member for three National Academic Leadership Development programs (including Elevating Leaders in Academic Nursing/ ELAN) that engage more than 300 academics per year in intensive learning, development, and coaching experiences. Combining her background in counseling psychology and organizational development Carolyn specializes in helping leaders optimize their effectiveness within complex systems. She believes successful coaching and development is the result of building trusted partnerships and communities where leaders have space to think, reflect, experiment, question and innovate in order to bring the best version of themselves to the work they do and the relationships they impact.

Carolyn completed a B.A. in Psychology and Anthropology at Emory University and a M.A. in Counseling Psychology at the University of Minnesota. She received her Ph.D. in Counseling Psychology with a specialization in Organizational Development from the University of Missouri-Columbia. Post-doctoral work included an 18-month clinical internship at the University of Utah Hospital and Counseling Center in teaching, organizational consultation, and HIV counseling. She is on the board of the American Psychological Association Division of Consulting Psychology and a member of the International Leadership Association. When she is not working, you'll find her anywhere outside with her three teens and dogs.
