American Association of Colleges of Nursing

Annual State of the Schools 2007

Educate  Advocate  Innovate
Highlights of the Year

July 2006
AACN announces the dates and locations for the first two Faculty Development Institutes offered through the new Geriatric Nursing Education Consortium (GNEC) funded by The John A. Hartford Foundation.

August 2006
AACN awards the first nine graduate nursing students with The California Endowment-AACN Minority Nurse Faculty Scholarship.
The American Nurses Association officially approves AACN as a new affiliate member.

September 2006
The AACN Board endorses The Hallmarks of Quality and Safety in Baccalaureate Nursing Education, a new set of curricular guidelines to help assure high quality and safe patient care.

October 2006
AACN members vote to endorse the Essentials of Doctoral Education for Advanced Nursing Practice as an official position statement of the organization.

November 2006
The California Endowment awards new grant funding to AACN in support of the Preparing a Culturally Competent Nursing Workforce initiative.

December 2006
The pilot test of the Clinical Nurse Leader Certification Examination is conducted with the first regular administration planned for Spring 2007.
For the first time, membership in AACN surpasses the 600 institutions mark in early December!

January 2007
The Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching and AACN conduct a joint survey on the opportunities and challenges facing nurse faculty as well as student capacity issues at schools of nursing.

February 2007
In response to member suggestions, AACN offers a new Faculty Development Conference aimed at helping nurses transition to faculty roles in baccalaureate and higher degree programs. More than 300 faculty attend this inaugural event.
The International Association of Hospice and Palliative Care selects AACN to receive the 2007 Annual University Award in recognition of the ELNEC project.

March 2007
AACN releases the published reports from its Fall 2006 survey which show enrollment increases in all types of baccalaureate and higher degree nursing, including entry-level baccalaureate (+7.6%); RN to baccalaureate (+14.8%); master’s (+18.1%); and research-focused doctoral (+6.3%) programs.

April 2007
To facilitate the adoption of AACN’s Baccalaureate and Master’s Essentials, the AACN Board requests that these documents be posted for free on the Web for nurse faculty worldwide to access.
The U.S. Department of Education renews its recognition of the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education as a nationally recognized accrediting agency.

May 2007
AACN is invited to present at the Johnson & Johnson Campaign for Nursing’s Future 5th anniversary celebration in New York City.

June 2007
The Task Force on the Revision of the Essentials of Baccalaureate Nursing Education meets to prepare a draft statement of competencies to be shared with stakeholders on the Web and at regional meetings.
Our Members

In 1969, the American Association of Colleges of Nursing was established to answer the need for an organization dedicated exclusively to furthering nursing education in America’s universities and four-year colleges. Representing schools of nursing at 612 public and private institutions, AACN is committed to serving the professional needs of nursing school deans, directors, faculty and staff through our leadership development, government advocacy, data collection, media outreach efforts, and many professional development and networking opportunities.

Our Mission

The American Association of Colleges of Nursing is the national voice for baccalaureate and graduate-degree nursing education. A unique asset for the nation, AACN serves the public interest by providing standards and resources, and by fostering innovation to advance professional nursing education, research, and practice.

This report highlights the association’s FY 2007 initiatives to help member schools meet the nation’s demand for innovative and expanded nursing care.
Letter from the President and Executive Director

Changing the Face of the Nursing Profession

Nursing’s academic leaders have long recognized the strong connection between a culturally diverse nursing workforce and the ability to provide quality patient care. According to the National Advisory Council on Nurse Education and Practice, policy advisors to Congress and the Secretary of Health and Human Services, diversifying the nursing profession is essential to meeting the health care needs of the nation and reducing health disparities that exist among many underserved populations.

Though nursing schools have made great strides in recruiting nurses from diverse backgrounds, more must be done before adequate representation becomes a reality. According to the U.S. Census Bureau, one in every three U.S. residents is classified as a member of a minority population. AACN’s latest enrollment data show an increase in minority representation across all types of professional nursing programs (see page 5). Students from diverse racial and ethnic backgrounds now comprise up to 25% of those enrolled in entry-level baccalaureate (25.2%), master’s (22.7%) and research-focused doctoral (19.9%) programs in nursing. These numbers are impressive when compared with other health professions programs. Still, we clearly have more work to do.

The drive to attract diverse nursing students is paralleled by the need to recruit more minority faculty. Few nurses from groups underrepresented in nursing – specifically, African Americans, Alaskan Natives, American Indians, Asians, and Hispanics – pursue careers as educators. AACN data show that only 10.5% of full-time nurse faculty in our programs come from minority backgrounds. A lack of representative educators may send a signal to potential students that nursing does not value diversity. Students looking for academic role models to encourage and enrich their learning are often frustrated in their attempts to find mentors and a community of support.

AACN is working with The California Endowment, the Johnson & Johnson Campaign for Nursing’s Future, the Sullivan Alliance, and the recommendations from the Academic Careers Task Force to help remedy these critical issues (see page 11). Through our efforts to provide scholarships and leadership development opportunities to minority students pursuing graduate degrees, AACN is creating a cadre of future nurse educators and leaders of the profession. Our work to embed new standards related to cultural competency in the Baccalaureate Essentials will help to better equip future nurses to care for an increasingly diverse patient population.

AACN commends our member institutions for their own innovative efforts to enhance diversity and prepare new graduates with enhanced levels of cultural competency. AACN is striving to be your partner in this important work by providing the resources and support needed to help change the face of the nursing profession.

Entry-Level Baccalaureate Enrollments Increase by 7.6 Percent

Enrollments in entry-level baccalaureate programs in nursing rose by 7.6 percent in fall 2006 over the previous year, marking the sixth consecutive year of enrollment increases. This upward trend follows six years of steady enrollment declines from 1995 to 2000 (Figure 1).

AACN determines enrollment trends by comparing data from the same schools reporting in both 2005 and 2006. Data show that nursing school enrollments are up in all regions of the United States with the greatest increase found in the Western states where enrollments in entry-level baccalaureate programs rose by 10.1 percent. Increases were also realized in the North Atlantic, Midwest, and South where enrollments rose by 8.4 percent, 8.0 percent, and 5.5 percent, respectively. The survey found that total enrollment in all nursing programs leading to the baccalaureate degree, both entry-level and RN degree completion programs, was 180,127, up from 163,706 in 2005 (Figure 2).

Enrollments Up in RN-to-Baccalaureate Programs

Given the calls for a better educated nurse workforce, AACN was pleased to see an increase in the number of registered nurses (RN) pursuing baccalaureate level education. RN-to-Baccalaureate programs are specifically designed to enable nurses prepared with a diploma or associate’s degree to earn a baccalaureate degree and enhance their clinical skills. From 2005 to 2006, enrollments in RN-to-Baccalaureate programs increased by 14.8 percent or 5,786 students, which makes this the fourth year of enrollment increases in these degree completion programs.

“AACN believes that education has a significant impact on the knowledge and competencies of the nurse clinician, as it does for all health care providers,” said AACN President Jeanette Lancaster. “Nurses with baccalaureate degrees are well-prepared to meet the demands placed on today’s nurse.” According to AACN data, there are currently 629 RN-to-Baccalaureate and 149 RN-to-Master’s Degree programs offered at nursing schools nationwide to move associate degree and diploma prepared nurses to the next level.
Interest Runs High in Accelerated Programs

For the fourth year, AACN’s annual survey captured data related to accelerated nursing programs, which are designed to transition adults with baccalaureate and graduate degrees in other fields into nursing. Accelerated baccalaureate programs, which may be completed in 12-18 months, provide the fastest route to licensure as a registered nurse for individuals with a prior degree. These intense programs have high admission standards, require continuous study without session breaks, and incorporate the same number of clinical hours as traditional programs.

Last year, 12 new accelerated baccalaureate programs were launched, bringing the total number of programs offered nationwide to 185. This total represents a significant increase since fall 2002 when 105 such programs existed. AACN’s latest survey found that 8,493 students were enrolled in accelerated baccalaureate programs while another 5,232 students graduated from these programs as entry-level clinicians last year.

Graduate Enrollments and the Nurse Faculty Shortage

The latest AACN survey found that both enrollments and graduations increased in master’s and doctoral degree nursing programs last year. Enrollments in master’s degree programs rose 18.1 percent (8,337 students) bringing the total student population to 56,028. In research-focused doctoral programs, enrollments increased by 6.3 percent (231 students) with the total student population at 3,927. The number of graduates from master’s degree and doctoral programs increased by 9.7 percent (1,164 students) and 1.4 percent (6 students), respectively (Figure 2).

Qualified Students Turned Away

Though interest in baccalaureate and graduate nursing education programs is high, not all qualified applications are being accepted at four-year colleges and universities. In fact, AACN’s survey found that 42,866 qualified applications were not accepted at schools of nursing last year due primarily to a shortage of faculty and resource constraints. Within this total, applicants turned away include 38,415 students from entry-level baccalaureate programs; 846 from RN-to-Baccalaureate programs; 3,306 from master’s programs; and 299 from research-focused doctoral programs (Figure 3).

The top reasons reported by nursing schools for not accepting all qualified students into entry-level baccalaureate programs, include insufficient faculty (71.0 percent), a lack of clinical teaching sites (55.9 percent), and not enough classroom space (50.3 percent). In the 2006-2007 academic year, 168,468 completed applications were received at schools of nursing with 107,930 meeting admission criteria and 69,515 applications accepted. The application acceptance rate was 41.3 percent.
Minority Representation in Nursing Programs Remains Strong

Representation of racial/ethnic minority groups in nursing programs remained strong in fall 2006 with minority group members comprising 24.8 percent of the students enrolled in entry-level baccalaureate nursing programs (Figure 3). Nursing’s academic leaders recognize the need to diversify the nursing student population and are working to identify student and faculty recruitment strategies, encourage minority leadership development, and advocate for programs that remove barriers to a nursing education and faculty careers.

Men continue to be underrepresented in nursing schools with only 9.9 percent of students in baccalaureate programs being male. In graduate programs, 8.9 percent of master’s degree students and 7.4 percent of students enrolled in research-focused doctorates are male.
AACN Data Collection

AACN’s 26th Annual Survey of Institutions with Baccalaureate and Higher Degree Nursing Programs is conducted each year by the association’s Research Center. Information from the survey forms the basis for the nation’s premier database on trends in enrollments and graduations, student and faculty demographics, and faculty and deans’ salaries. Complete survey results were compiled in three separate reports:

- 2006-2007 Enrollment and Graduations in Baccalaureate and Graduate Programs in Nursing
- 2006-2007 Salaries of Instructional and Administrative Nursing Faculty in Baccalaureate and Graduate Programs in Nursing
- 2006-2007 Salaries of Deans in Baccalaureate and Graduate Programs in Nursing

Clinical Nurse Leader

The Clinical Nurse Leader or CNL® is an emerging nursing role that AACN developed in collaboration with leaders from the education and practice arenas. AACN is advancing the CNL to improve the quality of patient care and to better prepare nurses to thrive in the health care system. The role emerged following research and discussion with stakeholder groups as a way to engage highly skilled clinicians in outcomes-based practice and quality improvement. The CNL is a master’s prepared advanced generalist who provides clinical leadership at the point of care. In practice, the CNL collaborates with the healthcare team and oversees the lateral integration of care for patients, provides risk assessment and quality improvement strategies, and implements evidence-based practice.

To date, more than 90 education-practice partnerships in 35 states and Puerto Rico are working together to advance the CNL role. Partners are developing master’s programs to educate CNLs, integrating this clinician into the health care system, and evaluating outcomes. The CNL Steering Committee, composed of representatives from education and practice, are overseeing the implementation of this initiative. The number of master’s level programs preparing CNLs increased to 55 in this past year. For an updated list of programs, see www.aacn.nche.edu/CNL/cnlweblinks.htm.

CNL Certification

The Clinical Nurse Leader Certification Advisory Committee moved forward with the development of the CNL Certification Examination this year. The purpose of the exam is to create a unique credential for graduates of master’s and post-master’s CNL programs or similar graduate programs that prepare advanced generalists and meet the end-of-program competencies outlined in AACN’s white paper on The Education and Role of the Clinical Nurse Leader. The exam was piloted in November/December 2006 at 12 member institutions offering the CNL degree. The web-based test has two separate components, multiple choice and simulation/case-based items, and is administered at the individual schools. The first regular administration of the CNL Certification Examination took place Spring 2007, and there have been 39 testing sites and 325 CNL certification applicants to date. Still in its formative stage, an expert advisory board was recently formed to assume oversight of CNL certification issues and activities.

To find out more about the Clinical Nurse Leader, see www.aacn.nche.edu/cnl.
In addition to the work on the DNP Essentials, the Task Force on the Roadmap to the DNP was charged with identifying and addressing the key institutional and academic issues facing schools of nursing seeking to transition to the DNP. In July 2006, the AACN Board approved the final report of the task force, which outlines recommendations and resources needed to respond to a variety of programmatic, faculty, and regulatory concerns. In support of the recommendations outlined in the report, the task force also has created an online DNP Tool Kit to assist schools planning DNP programs. See www.aacn.nche.edu/DNP/toolkit.htm.

DNP Programs Enrolling Students

Currently, there are 49 practice doctorates in nursing accepting students at nursing schools nationwide with up to 140 additional programs under development or being considered. For an updated list of DNP programs, see www.aacn.nche.edu/DNP/DNPProgramList.htm.

For more information about the DNP, including links to the position statement and an FAQ sheet, see www.aacn.nche.edu/DNP.
Quality Initiatives

In addition to the CNL and DNP initiatives, AACN is working to improve the quality of nursing care by re-envisioning traditional nursing roles, strengthening nursing education programs, and striving to create a more highly educated nursing workforce. This focus on quality comes in response to calls from the Institute of Medicine, the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, Agency on Healthcare Research and Quality, and other authorities who cite the need to address patient safety issues and transform care delivery.

Chaired by Dr. Patricia Martin from Wright State University College of Nursing and Health, the Task Force on Revision of the Baccalaureate Essentials hosted a national stakeholder meeting in February 2007 with a variety of invited experts representing specific practice or organizational perspectives. Comments from the stakeholders were incorporated into the first draft revision of the Baccalaureate Essentials, which was released this past summer. The task force is currently soliciting feedback on this document and has scheduled a series of five regional meetings to be held from September 2007 through April 2008 at locations from coast to coast. For more details on the regional meetings or to review the revised Essentials on the AACN Web site, see www.aacn.nche.edu/BACEssentMtg.htm.

In September 2006, the AACN Board of Directors endorsed a new set of recommendations for baccalaureate program competencies and curricular guidelines that will help ensure high quality and safe patient care. Chaired by Dr. Nancy DeBasio from the Research College of Nursing, the Task Force on the Essential Patient Safety Competencies for Professional Nursing Care prepared this new resource titled The Hallmarks of Quality and Safety in Baccalaureate Nursing Education. These recommendations will be incorporated into the work of the task force on the revision of the Baccalaureate Essentials. To download the hallmarks, visit www.aacn.nche.edu/Education/PSHallmarks.htm.

This year AACN was asked to play a lead role in a national strategic planning process to implement the genetics competencies endorsed in 2005. AACN agreed to join with the National Human Genome Research Institute (NHGRI) and the National Cancer Institute to hold an invitational meeting to develop a faculty tool kit to help nursing students achieve competency in genetics and genomics. This work is based on the Essential Nursing Competencies and Curricula Guidelines for Genetics and Genomics, a monograph prepared by NHGRI that emphasizes the importance of integrating genetics content into nursing curricula. The results of this collaboration will inform the work underway by the Baccalaureate Essentials Task Force.

AACN and the University HealthSystem Consortium (UHC) continued its work this year to evaluate and expand the national Post-Baccalaureate Nursing Residency Program. This partnership was stimulated by UHC chief nurse officers who identified the need for a stable workforce of better educated nurses. Currently, there are 36 practice and education partnerships engaged in the residency program. Preliminary outcomes data show that first-year retention rates are significantly higher among residency graduates, as is career satisfaction. At 9.7 percent, the turnover rate of residency graduates is far below the national average for new nurses, which runs as high as 33 percent. Additionally, the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education is collaborating with AACN and the UHC to develop an accreditation process to ensure that these programs are sophisticated, high quality, and innovative in providing opportunities to develop more skilled clinicians.

Earlier this year, AACN and the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching conducted a joint survey on nurse faculty workload, student retention, and nursing program capacity. Led by Dr. Patricia Benner from the University of California-San Francisco, this work was being conducted as part of the Foundation’s three-year study on teaching and learning in nursing. Questions focused on the transition from the classroom to the practice setting, faculty expectations and teaching loads, faculty role satisfaction, and student capacity limitations within schools of nursing. Data collected in this survey will be published among Dr. Benner’s final recommendations for nursing education.

In September 2006, the AACN Board of Directors selected Independence Blue Cross (IBC) of Philadelphia to receive the association’s 2006 Corporate Citizen Award. Created in 2003, this award recognizes outstanding contributions made by private companies and organizations in support of professional nursing education, practice, and research. IBC was honored for its work to mitigate the nursing shortage in Pennsylvania through the Nursing Scholars Program, a $12 million initiative to address both the shortage of practicing nurses and the shortage of nurse faculty. In March 2007, Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Florida was awarded the 2007 Corporate Citizen Award in recognition of the $15 million contribution the company has made to supporting scholarships for new nursing students and research aimed at improving patient safety, health care access, and quality outcomes.
Enhancing Diversity in Nursing

In November 2006, The California Endowment awarded AACN grant funding to support the Preparing a Culturally Competent Nursing Workforce initiative. Through this effort, AACN is developing a specific set of standards for cultural competency to be integrated with the standards established for all baccalaureate nursing programs. To accomplish this goal, AACN convened an expert panel of nurse educators and clinicians in May 2007 to review and make recommendations about strengthening the cultural competency elements of the Baccalaureate Essentials. Future meetings are planned and final recommendations are forthcoming.

Chaired by Dr. Nancy Hoffart from Northeastern University, the Academic Careers Task Force completed its work to make recommendations on strategies to diversify both the nursing student population and the faculty. The task force focused on ways to increase the number of doctorally prepared faculty from underrepresented minority (URM) populations in nursing; increasing support and retention activities for URM faculty; enhancing partnerships with minority serving institutions; and promoting public recognition and support for a more diversified nursing profession.

Last year, The California Endowment awarded AACN a generous grant to initiate a program to increase the number of minority nursing faculty in California. In August, nine graduate nursing students were each awarded $18,000 in funding through the California Endowment-AACN Minority Nurse Faculty Scholarship program. All those receiving funding have committed to teaching in a California school of nursing after graduation. Scholarship winners included PhD and MSN students from four member institutions, including California State University-Bakersfield, University of California-Los Angeles, University of California-San Francisco, and University of San Diego. Each winner attended a Leadership Development Conference in February 2007 and has been working with a mentor to further their professional development.

The Global Alliance on Nursing Education and Scholarship (GANES) moved ahead with its work this year to refine its mission, purposes, and governance structure. Founding members of GANES include AACN, the Council of Deans and Heads of UK University Faculties for Nursing and Health Professions, the Council of Deans of Nursing and Midwifery (Australia/New Zealand), and the Canadian Association of Schools of Nursing. At meetings held throughout the year, representatives developed specific governance agreements, which allocate responsibility for organizational oversight and management of GANES activities. Alliance members also explored mechanisms for increasing membership in GANES and agreed to host an information session at the International Council of Nursing quadrennial conference in Yokohama, Japan in May 2007.

In March 2007, the Sullivan Alliance hosted a National Leadership Symposium on Diversity in the Health Professions. Dr. Dula Pacquio, member of AACN’s Cultural Competency Advisory Group, represented AACN at the meeting and made a presentation focused on increasing diversity in nursing student populations and on efforts to expand cultural diversity. The Sullivan Alliance is composed of previous members of the Sullivan Commission on Diversity in the Healthcare Workforce and the Institute of Medicine Commission on Diversity in the Health Professions. AACN Executive Director Polly Bednash is a member of the Sullivan Alliance and serves as the representative from professional nursing.
Advocacy

AACN actively works with Congress and the larger nursing community to shape legislation that supports nursing education, practice, and research. This year, AACN focused on increasing funding for programs designed to alleviate the nurse faculty shortage, expand enrollments in entry-level nursing programs, and increase funding for graduate education.

AACN’s Government Affairs Committee and staff are engaged in advocacy efforts to increase funding levels for Nursing Workforce Development Programs (Title VIII of the Public Health Service Act). Though federal funding for Title VIII programs at the Division of Nursing has doubled in the past five years, the nation is facing a large budget deficit that may make it difficult to avoid future funding cuts. In FY 2007, Nursing Workforce Development Programs received $149.7 million in funding, which reflects level funding when compared to the previous year. In addition to Title VIII, this fiscal year also brought level funding for the National Institute for Nursing ($137.3 million) and Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality ($318.7 million).

In June, AACN was pleased to report that the Senate Appropriations Committee recommended an increase in funding for Nursing Workforce Development Programs (Title VIII of the Public Health Service Act) by almost $20 million more than last year, for total FY 2008 funding of $169.7 million. This is particularly positive news given the funding cuts to nursing education proposed in the President’s FY 2008 budget. Of special interest, the Senate is calling for the Nurse Faculty Loan Program to receive $8 million (6.8% increase), and the Advanced Education Nursing Grants program was provided $68.9 million (20.7% increase) over the FY 2007 total. In July, the full House voted on the Labor, Health and Human Service and Education Appropriations bill that included $165.6 million in funding for Title VIII.

On the legislative front, staff worked with Representatives Nita Lowey (D-NY), Peter King (R-NY), and Lois Capps (D-CA), to reintroduce the Nurse Education, Expansion and Development (NEED) Act (H.R. 772) to assist schools of nursing in increasing the number of students and faculty. The bill calls for capitation grants for schools to hire new and retain current faculty, purchase educational equipment, enhance audiovisual and clinical laboratories, expand infrastructure, or recruit students. The Senate version of the bill (S. 446), championed by Senators Richard Durbin (D-IL) and Barbara Mikulski (D-MD), was also introduced in January 2007.

AACN Government Affairs staff also worked with Representatives Carolyn McCarthy (D-NY) and Charles Boustany (R-LA) to introduce The Nurse Faculty Higher Education Act (H.R. 2384) in May 2007. This legislation would amend the Higher Education Act by allowing the Secretary of Education to award grants that create pilot projects for partnerships between an accredited school of nursing and a hospital or other health facility in order to retain the facility’s staff of experienced nurses and use the graduate educated nurses as faculty. The bill requires such individuals to teach for two years for each year of support received under the program.

For the latest details on AACN’s advocacy efforts including updated information on the current fiscal year’s appropriations process, see www.aacn.nche.edu/Government.
Geriatric Nursing

The Geriatric Nursing Education Project, proudly administered by the AACN and generously funded by The John A. Hartford Foundation, incorporates several complementary programs to improve nursing care for older adults through curriculum enhancement, faculty development and scholarship opportunities. These programs include the Creating Careers in Geriatric Advanced Practice Nursing project which provides scholarships to graduate nursing students looking to specialize in geriatric nursing care.

Funded by The John A. Hartford Foundation, the Geriatric Nursing Education Consortium is an innovative national initiative to enhance geriatric content in senior-level baccalaureate courses. Administered by AACN, this program provides nursing educators with the skills, knowledge, and resources needed to ensure that the “best geriatric nursing care practices” are imbedded in baccalaureate curricula and subsequently in the clinical care provided by newly educated nurses. Using a “train-the-trainer” approach, nurse faculty attending the GNEC institutes are expected to serve as leaders and mentors by sharing their new expertise with colleagues. The first institute held June 27-29, 2007 in Portland, OR was oversubscribed and very well reviewed by participants. A total of 138 faculty attended representing schools in 32 states.

In October 2006, AACN and the Hartford Foundation Institute for Geriatric Nursing announced the winners of the 2006 Awards for Baccalaureate Education in Geriatric Nursing. This national awards program was created to recognize model baccalaureate programs in nursing with a strong focus on gerontological nursing. Awards were presented to programs that exhibit exceptional, substantive, and innovative baccalaureate curriculum. Beyond innovation, programs must also demonstrate relevance in the clinical environment and have the ability to be replicated at schools of nursing across the country. Awards were given this year to one faculty member at the University of Minnesota and three schools of nursing: Old Dominion University (VA), Johns Hopkins University (MD), and the University of Missouri-Columbia.

End-of-Life Care

Administered jointly by AACN and The City of Hope National Medical Center, the End-of-Life Nursing Education Consortium (ELNEC) project is a national education initiative to improve end-of-life care in the United States. The ELNEC project’s train-the-trainer program has educated over 3,800 nurse educators over the past six years, including a wide array of staff nurses, nursing administrators, continuing education providers, clinical nurse specialists, nurse practitioners, and undergraduate and graduate nursing faculty. These nurses, who represent all 50 states, are employed in hospitals, clinics, research centers, long-term care/skilled nursing facilities, hospices and universities.

The project, which began in February 2000 with funding provided by the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, has expanded its scope significantly over the years. In addition to ELNEC-Core and ELNEC-Graduate training opportunities, the project now offers specialty programs including ELNEC-Oncology and ELNEC-Pediatric Palliative Care courses. Last year, new curriculums for ELNEC-Critical Care and ELNEC-Geriatric were developed in collaboration with leading experts in these specialty areas. Due to the increasing need for ELNEC-Core, ELNEC-Graduate, and ELNEC-Oncology courses, these 3 curriculums have merged to form ELNEC-SuperCore. To sustain operations and expand its reach, the ELNEC project has also succeeded in securing additional funding to continue the trainings through the National Cancer Institute, Aetna Foundation, Archstone Foundation, Open Society, Oncology Nursing Foundation, and California HealthCare Foundation.

For more information on the ELNEC project including details on how to register for upcoming training sessions, see www.aacn.nche.edu/ELNEC.

Education & Communication

AACN strives to meet the education and professional development needs of nursing school deans and faculty. AACN conferences and seminars give nurse educators personal contact with key decision makers in health care, higher education, and government. Association meetings offer a stimulating source of continuing education and professional development that builds leadership and allows for valuable networking.

Fifteen conferences and network meetings were offered July 2006-June 2007 including the Summer Seminar, Organizational Leadership Network Meeting, Fall Semiannual Meeting, Executive Development Series, Instructional Leadership Network Meeting, Baccalaureate Education Conference, Doctoral Education Conference, Research Leadership Network Meeting, Faculty Development Conference, Master’s Education Conference, Nursing Advancement Professional Conference, Spring Annual Meeting, Hot Issues Conference, Graduate Nursing Admissions Professionals Meeting, and Business Officers Meeting. See page 37 for a listing of upcoming conferences.

In response to enthusiastic member suggestions, AACN hosted its first Faculty Development Conference aimed at helping nurses transition to faculty roles in baccalaureate and higher degree programs in February 2007. The conference was designed for those new to the faculty role or who would like to gain more self-confidence in teaching. Reflecting the theme “Transition to Teaching,” program sessions addressed issues of concern to the new faculty member, learner-centered teaching, creating an active learning environment, clinical teaching and evaluation, and anticipating an academic career. An overflow crowd of more than 300 new faculty members attended this inaugural event.

AACN is committed to being the national voice for baccalaureate and higher degree programs in nursing. The organization strives to bring the association’s mission and message before the larger nursing community, through a variety of publications and outreach efforts. AACN’s primary publications are the Journal of Professional Nursing, the Syllabus newsletter, and the electronic AACN News Watch. Other publications released this year include:

- AACN white paper on the Hallmarks of Quality and Patient Safety: Recommended Baccalaureate Competencies and Curricular Guidelines to Assure High Quality and Safe Patient Care was released in September 2006 to provide guidance to schools on the need to embed quality and safety into their baccalaureate nursing programs.

- In October 2006, the AACN membership voted to endorse the Essentials of Doctoral Education for Advanced Nursing Practice as a position statement. This document defines the curricular elements and competencies that must be present in a DNP program.

- An Issue Bulletin showcasing success stories was published in October 2006 on State Legislative Initiatives to Address the Nursing Shortage.

- Formerly a “working paper,” the AACN Board of Directors approved the white paper on the Education and Role of the Clinical Nurse Leader in February 2007.

For more information on AACN publications, see www.aacn.nche.edu/Publications.
Accreditation

An autonomous arm of AACN, the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE) ensures the quality and integrity of baccalaureate and graduate education programs that prepare nurses. Now in its tenth year of accreditation review activities, CCNE has accredited 466 baccalaureate and 330 master’s degree programs in nursing at 796 colleges and universities nationwide and in Puerto Rico. An additional 41 baccalaureate and 16 master’s degree programs at 43 institutions hold new applicant status.

In April 2007, the U.S. Department of Education renewed its recognition of the Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE) as a nationally recognized accrediting agency. Citing no stipulations or compliance concerns, Secretary Margaret Spellings concurred with the National Advisory Committee on Institutional Quality and Integrity’s recommendation to continue recognition of CCNE as a national agency for the accreditation of baccalaureate and graduate degree nursing programs. The Secretary additionally acted to recognize CCNE’s expansion of scope to include nursing programs with distance education offerings. With this decision, CCNE is now the only national accrediting body for nursing education that is officially recognized by the Secretary of Education for the accreditation of nursing programs with distance education offerings.

Last spring, CCNE successfully completed its 2007 election process. CCNE distributed ballots to 462 institutions – all with baccalaureate and/or master’s degree programs holding accreditation by CCNE – to be cast in the elections for the CCNE Board of Commissioners and the CCNE Nominating Committee. Valid ballots were returned by 265 institutions, resulting in a 57% response rate. Elected to the CCNE Board were Harriet Feldman (incumbent), Dean and Professor of the Lienhard School of Nursing at Pace University (NY) and Jeanne Novotny, Dean and Professor of the School of Nursing at Fairfield University (CT), as the representatives for deans; and William Michael Scott (incumbent), Director, School of Nursing Clinics at Duke University (NC), as the representative for practicing nurses. CCNE Nominating Committee members for 2008 include Sara Campbell (chair), Illinois State University; Jean Bartels, Georgia Southern University; Patricia Burns, University of South Florida; Karen Devereaux Melillo, University of Massachusetts Lowell; and Teresa Cervantez Thompson, Madonna University (MI).

For more information on CCNE and nursing program accreditation, see www.aacn.nche.edu/Accreditation.

AACN Leadership Networks

To better engage all constituents in the organization, AACN is strengthening ties with nursing school faculty and staff through its seven leadership networks. Though AACN has always served the entire academic unit, the networks provide new opportunities for leadership development and serve as forums for participants to discuss issues as they relate to each area. With over 850 individuals now participating, the networks include:

- Business Officers of Schools of Nursing
- Graduate Nursing Admissions Professionals
- Instructional Leadership
- Nursing Advancement Professionals
- Organizational Leadership
- Practice Leadership
- Research Leadership

For a listing of Steering Committee officers affiliated with each Leadership Network, see page 29. For more information about the networks, visit the Networks tab on the AACN Web site found at www.aacn.nche.edu/Networks/index.htm.

Report of Independent Auditors

We have audited the accompanying statement of financial position of the American Association of Colleges of Nursing (AACN) as of June 30, 2007, and the related statements of activities, functional expenses and cash flows for the year then ended. These financial statements are the responsibility of AACN’s management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these financial statements based on our audit. The prior year summarized comparative information has been derived from AACN’s 2006 financial statements and, in our report dated August 18, 2006, we expressed an unqualified opinion on those financial statements.

We conducted our audit in accordance with auditing standards generally accepted in the United States of America. Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the financial statements referred to above, present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of American Association of Colleges of Nursing as of June 30, 2007, and the changes in its net assets and its cash flows for the year then ended in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

NOTE A - ORGANIZATION AND SUMMARY OF SIGNIFICANT ACCOUNTING POLICIES

Organization
The American Association of Colleges of Nursing (AACN) was formed in 1969 as a nonprofit organization to establish quality standards for bachelor’s and graduate degree nursing education, assist deans and directors to implement those standards, influence the nursing profession to improve health care, and promote public support of baccalaureate and graduate education, research, and practice in nursing.

AACN’s major programs consist of the following:

1. California Endowment: Administering the Nurse Faculty Scholarship Program to increase the number of minority faculty working in schools of nursing and developing a framework of expectations for baccalaureate nursing students to achieve cultural competence.

2. End of Life Projects: National education initiative to improve end-of-life care by providing undergraduate and graduate nursing faculty, CE providers, staff development educators, pediatric and oncology-specialty nurses, and other nurses with training in end-of-life care so that they can teach this essential information to nursing students and practicing nurses.

3. Gerontology/Geriatric Projects: Enhancing gerontology content and experiences in baccalaureate and advanced practice nursing (APN) education programs, providing faculty development for baccalaureate faculty using a train-the-trainer approach, and providing scholarship monies to increase the number of APN gerontology specialists.

5. Research: AACN’s Institutional Data Systems (IDS) and Research Center provide essential resources to assist the nursing community in addressing changes in health care systems and nursing education.

6. Education Policy: Multiple and diverse initiatives and activities related to nursing education and practice. These include the establishment of curricular standards, quality indicators for nursing education, and nursing education policy.

7. Governmental Affairs/Lobbying: Advocacy for nursing education and research throughout the federal legislative and regulatory process. AACN works closely with Congress, the Administration and federal agencies to ensure sufficient funding and focus on nursing programs through Title VIII of the Public Health Service Act, at the National Institute of Nursing Research, and in new initiatives that affect nursing education and research.

8. Publications: Publications include the Journal of Professional Nursing, the SYLLABUS newsletter, and a variety of other higher education/nursing publications.

9. Public Affairs: Programs to establish AACN as the authoritative source for information on baccalaureate and graduate nursing education by generating increased visibility within and outside nursing.

10. Meetings: National conferences focused on a variety of constituent groups within the school of nursing to address learning needs in the complex nursing education environment.

11. Networks: Information, networking and professional development for nursing school faculty and staff. The Networks bring peer professionals together to share best practices and sharpen leadership skills.

12. Special Projects: Provides leadership and support for many different projects related to promoting innovation in baccalaureate and graduate nursing education.

Basis of Presentation
The accompanying financial statements are presented on the accrual basis of accounting. Consequently, revenue is recognized when earned and expenses when incurred.

Financial Statement Presentation
AACN classifies information regarding its financial position and activities according to three classes of net assets: unrestricted net assets, temporarily restricted net assets, and permanently restricted net assets.

Income Taxes
AACN is exempt from federal income taxes under Section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code (the Code) and has been determined by the Internal Revenue Service not to be a private foundation within the meaning of section 509(a) of the Code.
Cash and Cash Equivalents
AACN considers all highly liquid investments with a maturity of three months or less, when purchased, to be cash equivalents.

Accounts Receivable
Accounts receivable are considered to be fully collectible by management and accordingly no allowance for doubtful accounts is considered necessary.

Fixed Assets
Fixed assets are stated at cost, if purchased, or fair market value at date of donation, if contributed. Depreciation of furniture and equipment is computed using the straight-line method over the estimated useful lives of the assets. Leasehold improvements are amortized over the shorter of the estimated useful life of the asset or the remaining lease term. All acquisitions of property and equipment in excess of $750 are capitalized.

Investments
Investments are stated at fair value. The valuation of investments is based upon quotations obtained from national securities exchanges; where securities are not listed on an exchange, quotations are obtained from other published sources. Investments in limited partnerships are reported at fair value based on information provided by the manager of the partnership. The manager determines the fair value based on quoted market prices, if available, or using other valuation methods, including independent appraisals.

Contributions and Grants
Contributions and grants are recorded as unrestricted, temporarily restricted or permanently restricted net assets, depending on the existence and/or nature of any donor restrictions. When a donor restriction expires, that is, when a stipulated time restriction ends or purpose restriction is accomplished, temporarily restricted net assets are reclassified to unrestricted net assets and reported in the Statement of Activities as net assets released from restrictions.

Dues and Fees
Membership dues are recognized as revenue on a pro rata basis over the term of the membership period. Application fees for accreditation are recognized as revenue in the year the accreditation process starts. Application and annual fees from the accreditation program and membership dues received in advance are included in deferred revenue.

Functional Allocation of Expenses
The costs of providing the various programs and supporting services have been summarized on a functional basis in the Statement of Functional Expenses and the Statement of Activities. Accordingly, certain costs have been allocated among the programs and supporting services benefited.

Use of Estimates
The preparation of financial statements in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America requires management to make estimates and assumptions that affect the reported amounts of assets and liabilities and disclosure of contingent assets and liabilities at the date of the financial statements and the reported amounts of revenues and expenses during the reporting period. Actual results could differ from those estimates.

Prior Year Information
The accompanying financial statements include certain prior year summarized comparative information in total but not by net asset class. Such information does not include sufficient detail to constitute a presentation in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America. Accordingly, such information should be read in conjunction with AACN’s financial statements for the year ended June 30, 2006.

Reclassifications
Certain 2006 amounts have been reclassified for comparative purposes.

NOTE B - COMMISSION ON COLLEGIATE NURSING EDUCATION
The Commission on Collegiate Nursing Education (CCNE) was established in 1996 as an autonomous arm of AACN to have the sole purpose of accrediting baccalaureate and graduate nursing education programs. AACN shares its premises and administrative personnel with CCNE. Costs are allocated between the two organizations and are based on actual expenditures or a percentage of salaries. As of June 30, 2007, CCNE owed AACN approximately $43,000.

NOTE C - INVESTMENTS
The quoted market and published unit values of investments as of June 30, 2007 are as follows:

The limited partnerships engage in the speculative trading of future contracts, forward contracts, and swap-contracts (collectively derivatives). The limited partnerships are exposed to both market risk, the risk arising from changes in the market value of the contracts, and credit risk, the risk of failure by another party to perform according to the terms of the contract.

NOTE D - CONCENTRATIONS

AACN maintains cash balances at various financial institutions. The accounts at these institutions are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) up to $100,000. At times during the year, AACN’s cash balances exceeded the FDIC limits. Management believes the risk in these situations to be minimal.

As of June 30, 2007, one contributor comprised 97% of contributions and grants receivable for AACN. One contributor comprised 63% of contributions and grants revenue for the year ended June 30, 2007.

NOTE E - CONTRIBUTIONS AND GRANTS RECEIVABLE

All contributions and grants receivable are considered to be collectible within one year unless otherwise stated by the donor. Contributions and grants receivable which will not be collected within one year have been discounted at 4.0% at June 30, 2007. Uncollectible contributions and grants receivable are expected to be insignificant.

NOTE F - RETIREMENT PLAN

AACN maintains a defined contribution retirement plan (the Plan) covering all employees who have completed one year of service and have reached the age of 21. Contributions to the Plan are applied to individual annuities issued to each participant by the Teachers Insurance and Annuity Association (TIAA) and/or the College Retirement Equities Fund (CREF). Participants are required to contribute five percent of covered compensation in order for AACN to contribute ten percent of covered compensation. Contributions to the Plan for the year ended June 30, 2007 totaled approximately $199,600.

NOTE G - PERMANENTLY RESTRICTED NET ASSETS

Permanently restricted net assets represent funds that are to be invested in perpetuity with the investment income used for general support of AACN. Permanently restricted net assets as of June 30, 2007 were approximately $88,000.

NOTE H - OPERATING LEASES

AACN leases office space under a noncancelable operating lease which commenced July 1, 1997 and expires on June 30, 2007. During 2007, AACN amended the terms of the lease to extend the lease term until June 30, 2008. In the normal course of business, operating leases are generally renewed or replaced by other leases.

NOTE I - TEMPORARILY RESTRICTED NET ASSETS

Temporarily restricted net assets are available for the following purposes as of June 30, 2007:

Governance and Organization

AACN is governed by an 11-member Board of Directors, each of whom represents a member institution. The Board consists of four officers and seven members-at-large, all elected by the membership for two-year terms.

Some members-at-large are designated by the president to serve two-year terms as chairs of standing committees, which include Finance, Government Affairs, Membership, and Program. The elected treasurer chairs the Finance Committee. The Nominating Committee is elected for a one-year term. The Board appoints task forces as issues arise that require study and action.

Deans of member schools, as well as AACN officers and staff, represent the association on a number of advisory councils, panels, agencies, committees, and other high profile initiatives within the nursing and higher education communities including:

Ad Hoc Group for Medical Research Funding – Over 300 research, biomedical, patient advocacy, and health care provider groups meet monthly and engage in activities including sending letters to the Hill, hosting briefings for congressional staff, and meeting with key NIH directors. AACN is a member of the Ad Hoc Group’s Executive Committee.

AfterCollege – In collaboration with AACN, AfterCollege funds a scholarship program and develops free online career centers for member schools.

Alliance for APRN Credentialing – Created by AACN in 1997 in conjunction with CCNE, this group of specialty nursing organizations meets twice each year to discuss issues related to nursing education, accreditation and credentialing.

American Health Care Association – AACN’s Executive Director participated on the Nursing Advisory Commission that examines nursing staffing concerns within the long-term care industry.

American Nurses Association – In 2006, AACN was approved as an affiliate member of the ANA. Among the many benefits of this new relationship, affiliate members have one voting and one non-voting seat at the ANA House of Delegates, and may also send a representative to the ANA’s Congress on Nursing Practice and Economics.

APN Consensus Work Group – Facilitated by AACN, this group of APN stakeholder groups is engaged in the development of a consensus statement regarding APN education, regulation, specialization, and certification. Participants include ANA, AANA, AANP, ANCC, AONE, NACNS, NCSBN, NLNAC, NONPF, ONCC and PCNB among other groups.

Association of Academic Health Centers – AACN is a member of the AAHC affiliates council and participates in all AAHC meetings and strategic planning activities.

Association of General and Liberal Studies (AGLS) – Staff serve on the Executive Council focused on promoting quality general education within higher education.

California Endowment – Dedicated to increasing access to health care, this foundation has partnered with AACN to offer a minority nurse faculty scholarship program, and is providing funding for the “Preparing a Culturally Competent Nursing Workforce” program.

Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching – In collaboration with AACN, conducted a joint survey on the opportunities and challenges facing nurse faculty as well as student capacity issues at schools of nursing.

CertifiedBackground.com – Through this partnership, AACN has negotiated discounted criminal background check services for students and faculty at member institutions.

Clinical Nurse Leader (CNL®) Steering Committee – The American Organization of Nurse Executives and VA Department of Nursing continue to collaborate with AACN on the CNL initiative.

Coalition for Health Funding – Government Affairs staff attend monthly meetings and briefings with key congressional and administration officials to ask questions and offer input on health care issues. This coalition leads Hill meetings with OMB and appropriations staff.

Consultant Group on Interprofessional Professionalism Measurement – This group is developing a set of defined attributes, which will serve as the foundation for developing behavioral measures as part of a system for assessing interprofessional professionalism.
Cover the Uninsured Week/Covering Kids & Families Campaign – For the past five years, AACN has joined with other national organizations to provide promotional support for these two Robert Wood Johnson Foundation initiatives.

Education Scholar – AACN is engaged in an ongoing collaboration with the American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy and Western University of the Health Sciences to administer this interprofessional, Web-based faculty development initiative for health professions educators. AACN represents nursing and is responsible for all nurse educator registrations across the U.S.

Educational Benchmarking, Inc. – AACN formed a partnership with EBI in 2000 to develop student satisfaction surveys to assist colleges and universities in assessing their nursing programs in support of continuous quality improvement objectives.

Elsevier Science – The publisher of the Journal of Professional Nursing, Elsevier is one of the leading publishers in the world with more than 20,000 products and services.

End-of-Life Nursing Education Projects – AACN collaborates with the City of Hope National Medical Center in California to provide a series of training sessions for nursing faculty in teaching end-of-life nursing care. Other program and funding collaborators include the Archstone Foundation, Last Acts, National Cancer Institute, and the Oncology Nursing Society.

Federation of Association of Schools of the Health Professions – AACN is a member of FASHP and participates in the monthly CEO meetings and twice yearly retreats. Other groups which meet include the FASHP CFOs and the information technology representatives. The groups meet to discuss common financial issues, governmental affairs, and joint advocacy efforts.

Friends of AHRQ – The coalition sends support letters, coordinates meetings with key congressional and administration staff, and hosts briefings to support AHRQ funding.

Friends of HRSA – The coalition sends support letters, coordinates meetings with key congressional and administration staff, and hosts briefings regarding HRSA funding.

Friends of Indian Health – The coalition sends support letters, coordinates meetings with key Hill staff, and hosts briefings and receptions regarding funding of the Indian Health Service.

Genetics and Genomics Steering Committee – AACN staff assist with implementing essential nursing competencies and curricula guidelines for genetics and genomics.

Gerontology Projects – Collaborating organizations include The John A. Hartford Foundation; John A. Hartford Foundation Institute for Geriatric Nursing and American Academy of Nursing (Hartford Geriatric Nursing Institute); American Geriatrics Society (distribute Geriatrics at Your Fingertips to master’s-prepared nurses); Gerontological Society of America (exhibit/present at annual scientific meetings); The Measurement Group (evaluator of grant project outcomes); Institute on Aging (PI faculty attend summer institutes and other training); and Alliance for Aging Research (support geriatric healthcare education and endorse annual report).

Government Affairs Collaborating Organizations – Staff work closely with a variety of nursing organizations on common issues related to nursing research, education and related legislation and regulation. Collaborators include American Association of Nurse Anesthetists, American Nurses Association, American Organization of Nurse Executives, NONPF and the American Academy of Nursing.
Health Professions and Nursing Education Coalition
- HPNEC holds monthly meetings, sends support letters, hosts an annual Capitol Hill lobbying day, develops talking points and brochures, holds Hill briefings, and coordinates meetings with appropriations staff. AACN is one of five members of the Steering Committee.

Healthy People Task Force – This interprofessional task force addresses Healthy People 2010 implementation within health professions curricula. Participants include the American Association of Colleges of Osteopathic Medicine, American Association of Colleges of Pharmacy, American Dental Education Association, Association of American Medical Colleges, Association of Physician Assistant Programs, Association for Prevention Teaching and Research, and the National Organization of Nurse Practitioner Faculties.

Higher Education Friday Group – Led by the American Council on Education, this group meets weekly to discuss Higher Education Reauthorization and organizational advocacy efforts.

Interagency Collaboration on Nursing Statistics – ICONS promotes the generation and utilization of data, information, and research to facilitate and influence decision making about nurses, nursing education, and nursing workforce. AACN has been a member since 1984.

International Academy of Nurse Editors – INANE is an informal network of about 200 editors of nursing publications worldwide that meets once a year to exchange information about editing and publishing strategies for professional nursing publications.

Interprofessional Education (IPE) – Assisting with planning the October conference, “Collaborating Across Borders: An American-Canadian Dialogue on Interprofessional Health Education,” that will be held at the University of Minnesota.

Johnson & Johnson’s Campaign for Nursing’s Future – AACN consults with campaign coordinators on the national public awareness campaign launched by J&J to generate interest in nursing careers.

Joint Commission – AACN participates actively on two JC councils, the Nursing Advisory Council and the Health Professions Council, and on the planning committee for JC conferences on health professions education.

Learning for Life – AACN staff participated in the National Health Careers Exploring Committee that planned three 2007 National Health Careers Exploring Academies (Bethesda, Chicago, Houston).

Lydia’s Professional Uniforms, Inc. – Working through AACN, Lydia’s funds a scholarship program for juniors enrolled in baccalaureate nursing programs.

National Association of Advisors for the Health Professions – Staff attend annual meetings and work with the NAAHP to highlight nursing as a career choice to college program advisors.

National Association of Clinical Nurse Specialists – Initiated in 2003, the AACN/NACNS Data Collaboration was established to jointly collect data on CNS educational programs.

National Center for Higher Education – Representing associations in the One Dupont Circle building, AACN participates on several NCHE working committees, including Technology, Meeting Planning, Human Resources and Building Services.

National Nursing Research Roundtable – NNRR is an informal association of nursing organizations with a mission to serve the public’s health through a strong research-based nursing practice. AACN has been a member since 1989.
National Organization of Nurse Practitioner Faculties
– The AACN/NONPF Data Collaboration and Data Advisory Committee was initiated in 1997 and has resulted in the creation of the most complete repository of data on NP education in the US and a single data source to support health workforce planning and policy analysis.

National Quality Forum (NQF) – AACN staff assist with reviewing NQF’s National Voluntary Consensus Standards and participate in the Quality, Measurement, Research and Improvement (QMRI) Council.

National Student Nurses Association – AACN coordinates educational sessions at NSNA’s annual and mid-year conferences to strengthen ties between both organizations.

Nurses for a Healthier Tomorrow Coalition – A member of the Executive Committee, AACN works this coalition of 45 nursing groups to increase interest in nursing faculty careers.

Nursing Emergency Preparedness Education Coalition – Formed by Vanderbilt University, NEPEC is a coalition of national nursing, accrediting and healthcare organizations focused on preparing nurses to respond to mass casualty incidents. AACN’s Senior Director of Education Policy serves on the Executive Steering Committee.

Nursing Overseas (NO) – AACN supports the nursing division of Health Volunteers Overseas, a private, nonprofit voluntary organization founded in 1986 and headquartered in Washington, DC.

Peterson’s – AACN has collaborated with Peterson’s in publishing the Guide to Nursing Programs Guide since 1994. Peterson’s is part of the Thomson Corporation.

Quality and Safety Education for Nurses (QSEN) – QSEN develops educational strategies that promote quality and safety competencies in nursing.

Society of National Association Publications – SNAP is a non-profit professional society that serves association publishers and communications professionals and provides a forum for idea information and exchange.

Sullivan Alliance for Diversity in the Health Professions – AACN’s Executive Director represents nursing on this interprofessional working group focused on enhancing diversity across the health professions.

TriCouncil for Nursing – Composed of AACN, AONE, NLN and ANA, the TriCouncil meets up to four times yearly to discuss government affairs initiatives and common issues of concern.

University HealthSystem Consortium – AACN’s ongoing collaboration with the UHC centers on the creation and evaluation of a one-year, post-baccalaureate nursing residency program.

Washington Higher Education Secretariat – WHES is composed of 50 national, higher education associations including AACN. The American Council on Education is the coordinating body that provides a forum for discussion on education issues of national and local importance.

Working Group on Nursing Funding – This group holds periodic meetings, sends joint Hill meetings, and sends support letters to Congress on funding for nursing education.
