American Association of Colleges of Nursing
Celebrating 50 Years as the Voice of Academic Nursing

Orlando, FL

Trends in Baccalaureate Education and Beyond!

Join over 500 faculty from baccalaureate nursing education programs nationwide in Orlando, FL for the 2019 AACN Baccalaureate Education Conference.

Whether you are a new or seasoned faculty member, dean, an aspiring leader, or in an associate/assistant dean role, this is a conference you cannot miss!

This conference prepares you for the challenges facing nursing academics teaching at the undergraduate level today!

Baccalaureate Education Conference November 21-23, 2019

This conference focuses on the latest trends, strategies, and innovations in baccalaureate nursing education. Faculty nationwide come together once a year to interact directly with colleagues and to learn from renowned experts during interactive learning formats, including plenary and breakout sessions, focused discussions, and informal breakfast forums. Additionally, abstract presentations in both poster and podium format address the many changes and challenges in baccalaureate education, including:

- Innovative Assessments
- Population Health: Re-conceptualizing Point of Care
- Data-driven Curricular Change
- Promising Practices: Reflecting the Social Fabric in Academia

Providing a rich and diverse learning environment, participants benefit from educational content that has been carefully selected to inspire their role as academic nursing leaders.

A variety of pre-conference events allow participants to also focus on deep-learning in specific areas.

Speaker Spotlight

Dr. Bridget R. McCurtis

Assistant Vice Provost Diversity Initiatives, New York University, and Founder and Chief Education Officer, Beyond Measure Coaching and Consulting

Operating in the Gap: Are you Teaching, Leading, and Serving in a Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion Void?

Uncover the differences in understanding diversity, equity, and inclusion that exist between different generations and diverse populations. Strategies to raise awareness and nurture true engagement will help participants to lead with courage and address the needs of increasingly diverse constituents.

Dr. Philip Dickison

Chief Officer, Examinations Department, National Council State Boards of Nursing (NCSBN)

The Dawning of the Next Generation National Council Licensure Examination (NCLEX)

In this time of rapid, transformative change, nurses are making more critical decisions at all levels at the point of care. Hear Dr. Dickison as he describes the evolution of the Next Generation NCLEX (NGN) and the progress to date of the NCLEX Examination Committee (NEC).

Dr. Carole Myers

Professor, University of Tennessee and Senior Fellow, George Washington University

Media Engagement: Essential for Improving Population Health and Enhancing Nurses' Contributions to Health Reform

What is the value of nurses using media and other communication strategies to advance population health? The findings from the 2018 Woodhull study are alarming. Discover a path forward for enhancing media competencies among individual nurses and nursing organizations to facilitate transformative change through the delivery of integrated care that improves patient outcomes, reduces disparities, and influences policies supporting and hastening needed changes with nurses as key influencers.

Special Presentations

Re-envisioning the AACN Essentials: A Task Force Update

The AACN Board of Directors appointed a task force to update The Essentials to reflect today's healthcare and higher education environment, a transition to competency-based education, and alignment across baccalaureate and graduate degrees. This visionary approach will allow for numerous opportunities for feedback and consensus building among diverse stakeholders. This presentation provides an overview of the progress to date and allows sufficient time for attendees to ask questions and provide feedback as this work moves ahead.

Tips for Success: Highlights of the Revised CCNE Accreditation Standards

The revised (2018) CCNE accreditation standards, which went into effect on January 1, 2019, bring new opportunities for engagement and enhanced understanding of expectations regarding nursing program quality and effectiveness. Hear CCNE leaders share highlights of the changes and their perspectives and insights about ways to demonstrate compliance. This session is relevant to new and seasoned administrators and faculty and to those who are writing an accreditation report or preparing to host a CCNE on-site evaluation.

Pre-Conference Events

Faculty Development Conference

November 20-21, 2019

If you are new to the faculty role and looking to gain confidence in teaching, or experienced faculty seeking to expand your skillset, you should attend this conference. This year's theme focuses on Beyond Boyer's Model of Scholarship: From Theory to Practice. Realistic strategies to implement the tripartite mission of teaching, service, and research are shared by individuals successful in mastering the faculty role. Additionally, participants benefit from poster presentations focusing on:

- Interprofessional Evidence-Based Education
- Innovative Teaching Methodologies and Strategies
- Service as a Vehicle to Support Clinical Scholarship

Executive Development Series for Faculty

November 20-21, 2019

This event is tailored to faculty seeking opportunities for leadership development focused on integrating and elevating innovation in the nursing academic environment. Opportunities include learning the innovator's mindset and approach, addressing barriers to innovation, and using design thinking to look at old problems in fresh new ways and applying innovation strategies to existing financial models. This conference will allow participants to crack the code on innovation, see their work challenges through a new lens and learn how to catalyze creativity and lead innovation in nursing education. The program for the Executive Development Series for Faculty has been developed by The Nebo Company, a top DC based leadership development firm, in consultation with AACN.

Lunch Workshop

November 21, 2019

The AACN Faculty Leadership Network (FLN) sponsored Lunch Workshop explores Promoting Resilience and Sustaining Civility in the Face of Challenging Situations. All are welcome to attend and to explore the use of resilience principles and practices that will assist the nurse educator to successfully manage situations when faced with a variety of challenges in the academic work environment. Be empowered with skills and techniques that will allow you to thrive when faced with workplace incivility.

The Faculty Leadership Network is an AACN Leadership Network for faculty whose primary focus is teaching didactic and clinical courses, and provides opportunities to explore real world issues, pose pedagogical questions, and exchange ideas related to teaching and curriculum in professional nursing education. For more information visit www.aacnnursing.org/Leadership-Networks/FLN.

Separate registration is required for all pre-conference events.

The Voice of Academic Nursing

Why join us?

"The many networking opportunities with fellow faculty helped me gain great ideas and strategies for me to incorporate in my curriculum."

"My first time attending this conference and I really enjoyed it. I learned a significant amount of relevant information that will continue to support me to further develop in the scholarship of nursing."

"The opening speaker certainly gave me a lot to think about and consider when looking at the curriculum. Great job with presenting the information and trends."
